TRANSCRIPT RELEASE

This form should be completed and sent to current school, not to The Gunnery.

Frederick W. Gunn, teacher, individualist, outdoorsman, believed strength of character to be the goal of true education. In 1850 he established a school that cultivated scholarship, physical fitness, mutual respect, and personal integrity—the four cornerstones on which character is built. The Gunnery of today still stands on the principles of its founder. A skilled and committed faculty leads a diverse student body in a comprehensive college preparatory curriculum, rigorous athletics, and a broad array of artistic and social activities. The values of citizenship and social responsibility are reinforced in a small, cohesive community which promotes maturity, dedication, and lifelong accomplishment.
